REGIONAL COMPONENT OUTLINE

INTRODUCTION AND PURPOSE

The Water Resources Planning Act calls for the development of a State Water Plan that consists of six regional components to reflect the geographic diversity of six major basins (Delaware, Upper Susquehanna, Lower Susquehanna, Potomac, Ohio, and Great Lakes). Section 3112 of the Water Resources Planning Act requires the State Water Plan and each Regional Component to include sixteen specific elements set out in section 3112(a) and a number of considerations set out in section 3112(b). In Section 3111(b), however, the Act allows the level of detail within the State Water Plan to vary among watersheds and other hydrologic units. To the extent that the regional components are inconsistent with the statute and other considerations, the Statewide Water Resources Committee and DEP are to consider and to resolve any differences that require reconciliation under the standards expressed in section 3115.

Below is an outline of a sample regional component for consideration by each of the regional committees. Elements of the component required by section 3112(a) are noted with a reference. Elements of the component to be considered under section 3112(b) are similarly noted with a reference. This outline suggests lead entities and target dates (of course, subject to change) for completion of each portion of this task. Each of the regional committees will be asked to consider this outline as they move forward on developing their respective regional components.
