Narrative: I visited the site to oversee the gauging and bailing of the pre-selected residences. I arrived at 8:50 to wait for GES to arrive, which was at 9:10. There was only one person from GES performing the gauging and bailing activities for the day. Results are in the table below. The interface probe was deconned after being used at each residence. LNAPL samples were collected from wells which had measurable product. Those wells were also bailed until there was 0.01 ft of measurable LNAPL. None of gauged wells had absorbent socks installed. I did not notice any petroleum odors except from the two metal buckets that were used to store the bailed water/LNAPL.

The residents from [REDACTED] observed the gauging event.

Address	Arrival Time	PID (ppm)	DTP (ft.)	DTW (ft.)	LNAPL thickness (ft.)
[REDACTED]	9:15	390.5	56.06	56.10	0.04
[REDACTED]	11:02	2.3	--	26.81	0
[REDACTED]	10:06	108.4	26.65	26.77	0.12
[REDACTED]	11:39	3.2	--	49.65	0
[REDACTED]	11:51	5.7	--	32.55	0
[REDACTED]	11:16	12.8	--	32.77	0
[REDACTED]	11:28	1.5	--	45.53	0

DTP – Depth to product (LNAPL)

DTW – Depth to water

While I was at [REDACTED], Nancy Sadlon of ET stopped by. She let me know that she was in the neighborhood distributing flyers regarding what to expect when the drilling along Glenwood Drive starts next Monday. She also stated that ET and the contractors retained for all aspects of drilling activities (traffic, safety, monitoring, etc..) which is scheduled to start next Monday May 19, 2025, were meeting with the Township to keep them informed.

I departed from the site at 12:03pm
