Dwg. No. 14

Islands in the Middle of the River

Some islands in the middle of the river belong to the Commonwealth and some are privately owned.

If you have a pipeline or aerial wires crossing a river that has an island in the middle, the length of the crossing will not include the portion crossing the island. Use only the length of the crossing that is either under or over the water. It does not matter whether the island is owned by the state or privately owned. We are interested in only the portion of the crossing that occupies the submerged lands, and islands are not submerged lands.
